Ensuring Aging Family Members Feel ‘Safe, Comfortable and Loved’

Like many older adults, Rita Ford’s mother, Rita Priest, wanted to stay in her home for as long as possible, and her six children respected those wishes.

At age 93, Priest wasn’t ill, but she started to need assistance with daily living. Ford and one of her brothers took turns caring for her mother, who lived 40 minutes away. Then her mother started experiencing balance issues and falls. The family brought in an overnight agency to help with their mother’s care, and the siblings continued to care for their mother in shifts over the next four years.

“You just want to make your loved one feel safe, comfortable and loved,” says Ford.

At age 97, Ford’s mother moved in with her. It was an emotional time. “It was difficult for me to watch my mother give up her independence and lose her home,” Ford says.

While caring for her mother, Ford’s youngest brother learned he had cancer. When her brother passed away, her mother’s health rapidly declined.

Providing care took a toll on Ford’s health. “Caregiving ages the caregiver,” she explains. “You put out energy without getting any energy back.”

Needing a break from the constant strain of caregiving, Ford utilized a respite care program for a week. After, her mother’s health declined until she ultimately needed hospice care; she passed away days after her 98th birthday.

Now, only months after her mother’s death, Ford is caring for her 91-year-old aunt with dementia. Ford relocated her aunt from Virginia to Westminster and visits her frequently.

Ford continues to seek the support and assistance of the bereavement support services offered through Carroll Hospice, as well as the monthly caregiver support group offered by the Carroll County Bureau of Aging & Disabilities. Both are a place to share emotions and experiences and help with coping strategies.

Being a caregiver has strained Ford physically and emotionally. But, for her, she felt it was—and it continues to be—her responsibility to care for family who could no longer care for themselves. “We were raised that you take care of your extended family,” says Ford. “That’s what you do.”
When a family member or friend faces a life-limiting illness, many times our role shifts from “loved one” to “caregiver.”

65.7 million caregivers are in the United States providing support to those who are ill, disabled or aged, according to the Family Caregiver Alliance (FCA), a national non-profit organization dedicated to improving the quality of life for caregivers and those for whom they provide care.

Local and national resources are available to caregivers for the support they need to provide the best care possible, including the McGinnis Bereavement Resource Center at Dove House; the monthly caregiver support group at the Carroll County Bureau of Aging & Disabilities; and online resources including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention at www.cdc.gov/aging/caregiving/resources.htm and the Family Caregiver Alliance website at www.caregiver.org.

Caregiving can be a difficult yet rewarding endeavor, and in this issue we share the challenges caregivers face and ways to find the ‘new normal’ once a loved one has passed away. We also learn Carroll Hospice Board Chairman Wayne Barnes’ vision for our hospice program, and the ongoing and special bereavement programs and services offered to help with the grief of losing a loved one.

A special thank you to all who have given so generously to Carroll Hospice, featured in our 2014 Annual Report of Carroll Hospice Donors. With your support, we are able to continue to provide high quality, end-of-life care in our community.

Sincerely,

Leslie Simmons, R.N., F.A.C.H.E.
Grieving Caregivers:
On a Journey to Find the ‘New Normal’

By Jill Englar, L.C.S.W.-C.
Director of Support Services

After a loved one dies, we may feel a mix of emotions—sadness, relief, guilt and regret, to name just a few. These emotions are typical. But, as a caregiver of that loved one, we may find ourselves wondering “what now?”

Our lives were so enmeshed with caring for our loved one that it may have been to the exclusion of all else; many caregivers give up socializing, working and family events to provide around-the-clock care for a family member or friend.

Part of the grieving process is to find a ‘new normal.’ Who are we without our loved one? What do we do now without him or her? What kind of future do we have?

“ As with any person experiencing grief, grieving caregivers need to be patient and gentle with themselves, give themselves time to heal and time to figure out what the next steps are going to be. ”

When we do understand we have freedom and allow ourselves to venture out, we may be plagued with unease or guilt. It’s as if we’re not comfortable in this new skin. We have forgotten how to do for ourselves, how to enjoy ourselves, how to live a life without schedules or structure.

As with any person experiencing grief, grieving caregivers need to be patient and gentle with themselves, give themselves time to heal and time to figure out what the next steps are going to be.

Practicing self-care is one of the biggest challenges. As a caregiver, we typically put off our own self-care because we just don’t have the luxury of time or even money. But by the time our loved one dies, we may find ourselves dealing with our own health issues on top of our grief.

As a part of this self-care, it is imperative that we make time for ourselves every day. Take the time to eat properly, rest, exercise, meditate or pray, read, listen to music, spend quality time with our family and friends again, or any other activity that brings joy. This is one of the biggest challenges; when we are grieving, self-care is something we really don’t want to do. Most find it difficult the first few weeks to get out of bed or venture out of the house. However, if we don’t, we will pay a heavy price, and children or other family members will pay that price as well.

A new griever finds it hard to believe that things will get better. But they do! Each person grieves and recovers in his or her own unique way. Some will take longer than others; however, with each passing day, it gets a little better, and we usually find that we are starting to put a plan together for our new future—that ‘new normal.’

Summer Grief Camp

Carroll Hospice hosts Camp T.R., an overnight grief camp that specializes in helping children ages 7 to 15 work through the grief of losing a loved one. Camp T.R. combines recreational activities, such as art, swimming and music, with grief education and support. The camp is staffed with professional bereavement counselors, and each camper is paired with a buddy who can provide support.

This year’s Camp T.R. takes place Friday, June 5 through Sunday, June 7, and is funded by The Kahlert Foundation. Registration is required. For more information, call 410-871-8000 or visit CarrollHospice.org/Camp-TR

The Tomato: A Volunteer’s Story

By Bonnie Finch
Carroll Hospice Volunteer

After a difficult day at work, I was not only running late to be at Dove House by 4:30 p.m., but my attitude wasn’t very good. I really didn’t want to go that night—the first time I can ever remember feeling that way.

I ran home after work to let my dog out and on a whim, picked up a big, beautiful “ugly” tomato and a few slices of bread to eat a tomato sandwich when I got to Dove House. This was also the first time I ever took food with me; I normally eat before my volunteer shift.

Dove House was busy that night, so I immediately went into a room to sit with a patient who was alone. After about an hour, a nurse came in asking if I wouldn’t mind making a grilled cheese sandwich for another patient. She was a young woman with her attentive husband at her side. While preparing the sandwich, the nurse popped her head in the kitchen and asked me to look on the shelves for tomato soup, because this patient had been asking for a grilled cheese and tomato sandwich, but Dove House didn’t have any tomatoes.

I had the tomato!

The patient’s husband lovingly fed his wife little pieces of the grilled cheese and tomato sandwich. He came to me later and was so thankful, saying that I would never know how much that sandwich meant to his wife. Well, I think I do know, and it humbled me. I don’t believe in coincidence; what I know is that God reached down to meet the desire of a dying woman that night and used a totally cracked and unworthy vessel to be His hands.

Carroll Hospice Patient and Family Experiences

Every patient has a different hospice experience, and we’re grateful to be a part of each end-of-life journey at Carroll Hospice. We are touched when we receive notes from patients’ families that thank us for the care their loved ones have received.

Here are just a few examples of the kind words shared about our hospice care:

There are no words to express how my mom and I felt about the care my dad received in the short time he was there. The nurses go above and beyond, as do the doctors and volunteers. It takes someone special to work there. The morning Dad passed, they allowed us all the time we needed to gather ourselves. We are very grateful for everyone there.

–Lindsey Baylor

Your staff took such wonderful care of our mother, from the moment she arrived until she died. Her family filled her room and was trying hard to let her know how much she was loved. The nurses gave good advice and were kind, so very kind. Thank you!

–Marianne Barnes

Our family was so impressed with the care that was provided to our father, Donald Nott, through Carroll Hospice. From the moment he said he was ready for hospice care up until his passing at Dove House, we were so very grateful to have the help and support needed to take care of him. As heartbreaking as it was to watch our Dad lose his battle to cancer, it was at the same time comforting to us knowing he was being taken care of in a way that we could no longer do for him. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

–Vicki Stickles

I would like to extend a big THANK YOU to the nursing staff at Dove House for their wonderful care they gave my dad during the last couple days of his life. His stay was very brief, but your compassionate care, kindness and the dignity you showed Dad will never be forgotten. The care you give patients and the concern you show the family during their stay goes above and beyond what any of us ever expected. You made Dad’s last moments more comfortable, and you treated him with such love! A special thank you to his caring staff.

Q&A with Carroll Hospice Board Chairman
R. Wayne Barnes

R. Wayne Barnes served on the Carroll Hospice Board of Trustees for four years before becoming chairman in 2014. In his professional role, Barnes helps people purchase life, annuities and long-term care insurance. He has been married to his wife, Bonnie, for 35 years and they have one son, Taylor.

How did you get involved in supporting Carroll Hospice? How long have you been involved with the organization?
Bonnie and I have been involved with the hospital for more than 20 years and have supported Carroll Hospice as well. My parents went door-to-door to collect money to help build our hospital and start hospice.

Why is hospice’s mission of providing quality end-of-life care important to you?
A person at the end-of-life stage deserves proper care, kindness and the opportunity to pass on with dignity. Carroll Hospice provides services in the patient’s home and at Dove House (inpatient care), while providing bereavement services to family and close friends. These are great community resources.

What would you like to see accomplished during your tenure as chairman?
I would like to see the Carroll Hospice Endowment Fund increased to the level that it can provide financial support for actual costs not fully covered by government programs and insurance plans. Currently, Carroll Hospital is our partner and ensures we are able to offer full services to the community. I’m also excited to expand palliative care and grow hospice in other areas as needed.
Celebrating a Successful Season to Remember

More than $10,000 was raised in support of Carroll Hospice during our annual Season to Remember event in December. Thirty-five trees, donated and decorated by individuals and businesses, were up for bid in the hospital’s main lobby, the Thomas Lobby in the hospital’s East Pavilion and at Dove House.

Carroll Hospice partnered with Blossom & Basket Boutique in Mount Airy once again, selling fresh floral centerpieces, with a large percent benefiting hospice.

The Memorial Tree Ceremony honoring loved ones at Dove House ended the weeklong event, with performances by the Century High School chorus and Mount Airy student Theresa Myers.

Thank you to all who supported Carroll Hospice through this festive and heartwarming event!
Carroll Hospice relies on support from the community to continue to provide services to those in a time of need. In calendar year 2014, more than 3,200 individuals and businesses made charitable donations supporting Carroll Hospice totaling more than $1.1 million. Private support played a significant role in helping Carroll Hospice meet the needs of many families.

Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the list of donors. If we have inadvertently misspelled or omitted your name, please accept our apologies and contact the Hospice development office at 410-871-7220 so we may correct our records.

In Honor Of
The following list of special friends and loved ones were honored through gifts made to Carroll Hospice between January 1, 2014 and December 31, 2014. If you would like to honor someone special, please visit CarrollHospice.org/Ways-of-Giving

Commemorative Bricks
Through our commemorative brick program, Carroll Hospice offers a lasting way to memorialize your loved ones or pay tribute to someone special. Each inscribed brick is placed outside of the main entrance of the Dove House. The following is a list of donors who purchased bricks from January 1, 2014 to December 31, 2014. If you would like to pay tribute to someone special by purchasing a commemorative brick for our Memorial Walkway, please visit CarrollHospice.org/Brick-Form

VIP Cocktail Reception 5 – 6 p.m.
General Tasting 6 – 9 p.m.
Gerstell Academy, Finksburg

Join us for the 16th annual Taste of Carroll, an evening to support the compassionate end-of-life care and bereavement support services provided by Carroll Hospice.

Guests will enjoy samples of specialties from nearly 30 local restaurants and wineries and a large silent auction featuring many unique treasures. This year’s VIP cocktail reception will feature Neil Meltzer, president and CEO of LifeBridge Health, and Theresa Myers, who will share her family’s hospice care experiences.

BB&T is the presenting sponsor for Taste of Carroll, Carroll Hospice’s signature fundraising event.

To purchase tickets, donate an auction item or view a slideshow from last year’s event, please visit CarrollHospice.org or call 410-871-7220.
